The red line should include all land necessary for the development, including land required to access the site, servicing and parking areas.

You can buy a planning map on the Planning Portal if needed.

Site plan

This site plan should be at an identified standard metric scale (usually to a scale of 1:500 or 1:200), including a north point, the proposed development (including any new boundary treatments or hard surfacing) in relation to the site boundaries and other existing buildings on the site, any affected public rights of way and the position of any existing trees on site. The plan should include any external areas associated with the property and any changes proposed to the external spaces.

Proposed floor plans

The plans should illustrate the proposals to a standard scale and clearly show the site in context. Depending on the type and scale of the proposals, these are likely to include block plans, floor plans, elevations, sections and roof plans.

Photographs

Images of the site and surrounding area that illustrate the proposal's context. Ensure that the size of each image does not exceed 2MB.

Draft design and access statement (desirable).

Other information

It might include a short supporting statement describing the proposal in more detail and any other reports or surveys commissioned, including wildlife and biodiversity and landscaping proposals.
